Blackwood's Magazine,
BRITISH REVIEWS!

Great Inducements to Subscribers!
PREMIUMS AND REDUCTIONS!

SCOTT & CO. New York continue to publish the following leading British Periodicals:

The London Quarterly (Constitutional)
The Edinburgh Review (Whig)
The North British Review (Free Church)
The Westminster Review (Liberal)

Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine (Tory)
The present editorial staff of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the forthcoming year. They will occupy a middle ground between the high literary and powerful, and the popular and sensational, and will be of the highest value to the reader.

Readers of the great political interests of the country will find in these reviews a full and complete history of the current events, and as such in addition to their well established literary, scientific and general character, will be of great value to the reader.

The receipt of Advance Numbers from the British publishers gives additional value to these publications, as they can now be placed in the hands of subscribers about as soon as the original editions.

Senator Morrill has introduced a bill to provide for the public defense, and to accept the loan for money therefor from the several States. This bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to receive from any of the States money lawfully appropriated thereby for the general defense, to be expended by the Federal Government upon such works of defense as may be authorized by Congress, and inasmuch as in return twenty years per cent United States bonds, the interest payable semi-annually. It also authorizes the Secretary of War, in case the President deems it advisable to accept such a loan for the State of Maine, to take immediate measures for the defense of Portland, and such other harbors in Maine as a board of engineers, appointed for that purpose, may recommend.

Correspondence of the Whig & Courier

Ansonia, March 28, 1862

In the statement of the amount allotted by the different companies of Maine Volunteers which I sent a few days since there was an error as to the amount allotted by Co. H of the 15th Regiment, Capt J B Wilson, a supplementary bill being accidentally omitted. The whole amount allotted by this company is $118, instead of $836 as stated, making it the banner company of the banner regiment, in the infantry service so far as allotment is concerned.

The following named persons have been commissioned to-day viz

Second Lieutenant George B. Atwood, Gardner, of company F, to be Lieutenant of Co. A, 6th Regiment, Sergeant Charles B. Dexter, Biddeford, to be 2d Lieutenant of Co. B, 6th Regiment, Sergeant John D. Ladd, Biddeford, of company B, to be 2d Lieutenant of company C, 6th Regiment, Sergeant Joseph White, to be 2d Lieutenant of company A, 6th Regiment.

The Springfield Armory has heretofore been obliged to purchase the iron for guns manufactured there, in England, as none could be found in this country that would answer their purpose recently the Pembroke Iron Works sent a sample of their iron to the Armory, and on trial it turned out to be greatly superior to any ever received from England. The consequence is that the Pembroke Company has just closed a contract with the Government for $40,000 worth of their iron.

This is but the commencement of what will probably turn out to be a large and profitable business, in the way of furnishing the United States with all the iron of this quality which may be wanted.

All the Batteries will leave Portland on Monday next.

The Gloucester Fishermen Mayor Stetson has received a circular from a committee of citizens of Gloucester, Mass. asking for aid from the public for the families made destitute by the late terrible gale. We copy that portion of the circular which shows the magnitude of the calamity.

The losses at sea, attending upon the fishing business were quite heavy during the month of January last, consisting of four vessels, two of them with their entire crews. In addition to this by the severe gale of February 24th and 25th our fleet received great damage and we have lost fifteen vessels more (thirteen of them with their entire crews) and still another is missing, with but faint hopes of her safety.

The losses of the present season in the fishery have been very heavy, and an amount of property from money to one hundred thousand dollars.

This terrible bereavement has cast a gloom over our community, and carried sorrow and mourning to many hearts. There are seventy-five widows and one hundred and thirty fatherless children who, by this disaster, need charity for their temporary support. Our people are doing all in their power to alleviate the distress and contribute to the support of the needy and unfortunate—but we need some help from abroad.

Persons willing to contribute for the relief of these suffering families can leave the amount with Mayor Stetson, who will see that it is promptly forwarded.

Mr. Weed's Correspondence. Mr. Weed was present during the debate in Parliament, and of course enjoyed it highly. He says Mr. Justice's speech was "clear, forcible and reasonable." He is the son of a prominent Quaker gentleman, who died in 1854 in Tennessee, after the recently captured Fort Donelson. Continuing his description of the speaker Mr. Weed says—

"The Solicitor General, Sir Rodolph Palmer, then took the floor, and made a most even, flowing volume of eloquence, and the House cheered for an hour. In the days when state manhood was conceded to a favored few, when learning and eloquence were monopolized by a few, a speech would have been hailed and held as a masterpiece, and yet, in manner, it seemed only the gentleman's way of talking. The sentences, pregnant with matter and meaning, dropped without effort from his melodious lips. Indeed, he was eloquent in prose as Jenny Lind was in music—because he could not help it."

Mr. Weed adds—

"I stated, in December, that I had met several gentlemen from Manchester, who assured me that while they wanted cotton, they would not seek it at the expense of our blockade, until our Government had been given a reasonable time to put down the rebellion. This proved true—in none of the hostile movements have the capitalists or operatives of the manufacturing districts participated. They have said, and would say, that though they suffer, they will hold out as long as they can, and endeavor to put down slavery, and in Parliament, the sentiments of their constituents."

The result of this debate, brought on by our common sense, was a marked triumph for the North. It is so, and it is generally so. As Mr. Mason, who was present, and evidently passed his sixtieth birthday, I could not help exclaiming at his attitude—"soldierly and one" in the House of Commons—with his arrogant, sometimes boisterous bearing, and his threatening, defiant language for so many years in our Senate."

Palmer Albert. The English papers state that Prince Albert was a member of the Order of the Bath and Accepted Master.

Commerce at St. James. St. James is to be a busy place. The ship-building is getting over their share, and are to resume work again.

KILLED IN BATTLE. James Breslin a young man from Waterport eighteen years of age a sailor on board the frigate Congress was killed at the late engagement between the Americans and that vessel. He was shot through the right leg, which was amputated, but death ensued from the loss of blood. He was captain of the muzzon boat, was a thorough seaman and much beloved by his comrades. He was buried at Newport News. His father, James Breslin was two more sons now in the service of the country.

A TESTIMONIAL. We understand that a special copy of Moore's complete works was presented to J. R. Wilken, Esq., chief clerk in the office of the Secretary of State, by his associate clerks, at the close of the session.

They have a story in Portland that during the Mercantile sale the Mayor, of that city telegraphed to the Governor to send him two of Tully's Batteries. The joke of the thing is that only a model of this battery has been constructed, and that the complete battery would be about as easy to transport as Mount Katahdin.
